ANOTHER BEAUTIFUL RIVER SCENE - This picture was taken from the same spot as the one in The Clipper last week but with the camera turned to the southeast. Both pictures were snapped from the Elba dam on Pen River, south of Elba. The scene last week was the part of the river turning southwest below the dam. The scenery in the dam area is beautiful and impressive. Other river scenes will be published as space permits.

IT'S UP TO YOU

By Howard E. Kershner, L.H.D.

SOME classes of workers are talking about annual variations of three months, then expect a year's pay for nine months' work. Other advocates of less work and more pay are seeking retirement at age 55 and 60. As there would be no Social Security payments at such ages, the unions are expected to demand that employers to retire after 25 years of service at half pay. It is also possible that the worker have the option of working for 60 years and then retiring on two-thirds pay.

These are extreme forms of the old fallacy that a reward has to be given for any relationship to the amount of service rendered. Surely it does not need to be proved that if all of us are planning to work for only 25 years we can not have as much as 17 years worked for 10 or 50 years. If one works for 25 years and then draws pay for another 25 years while in retirement, it means that his remuneration during the 25 years of service is somewhere between 50 and 100 percent larger than his wages during his 25 active years. That necessarily forces prices far above present levels as the output of each worker in comparison to wages received and retirement benefits received would not be much more than half of what it is at present.

Since one cannot receive wealth that is not created, this could be done only by disastrous inflation. That might do it in dollars, but it would not do it in real wages or actual purchasing power.

It is just not possible to have more by producing less and if people have made up their minds that they want to work only half of their productive lives they must reconcile themselves to having a standard of living only half as high as it otherwise might be. Surely, those who want to work a greater number of years and have more should have the privilege of doing so.

PUTTING THE RECORD STRAIGHT

Because some carping critics never cease their efforts to undermine free competitive enterprise via unfounded attacks on business profits, it is essential that the vital contribution of profits to economic well-being be re-emphasized from time to time.

On this occasion we know of no better way to clear the air of the last wisp of any smoke screen the aforementioned critics may have succeeded in sending up than through publication of two quotations.

The first is from a recent speech by Robert C. Tyson, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel Corporation. He said: "Profits and growth are inseparable; they are virtually synonymous. Profits are both the reason for and the proof of progress. As a converse corollary, an absolutely certain way to substitute economic stagnation for economic growth is, through legislation or other political intervention in free market affairs, to extinguish people's hopes of earning and having ever bigger profits. That is the road to some sort of socialism."

The second of the quotations is from the writings of John Maynard Keynes, the British economist (1883-1946) and it has great significance because Keynes held views that more often than not were in sharp conflict with true principles of private enterprise. It follows:

"Unemployment exists because employers have been deprived of profits. The loss of profits may be due to all sorts of causes. But, short of going over to communism, there is absolutely no means of curing unemployment except by restoring to employers a proper margin of profit."

Thus we have two authorities—who normally would have been poles apart in their economic thinking—in complete agreement on the importance of business profits to the creation of jobs and the achievement of higher living standards for all the people.

... about your SOCIAL SECURITY ...

Payments totaling $1.3 billion are universal, so some 1.3 billion dollars are now going each month to over 19 million people in the form of retirement, disability, and survivors' payments under the Social Security Act.

These figures were given recently in a statement released by Harry N. Scott, Social Security district manager in Dothan. At the beginning of 1963, some 91 million workers were insured, 55 million were permanently insured, and 55 million had worked long enough to qualify in case of disability. These figures have increased during 1963 and up to the present time.

The $5 million can expect to receive retirement payments whether or not they do additional work. The families of the 91 million can expect to receive monthly payments, a lump-sum amount, or both, in case of the worker's death. The 52 million and their families are protected in case of disability. The net effect is that some 90 percent of the working population has protection against one or more of these risks.

FARM NEWS

O. N. Andrews, our specialist in forage crops and weed control at Auburn, had this to say about weed control in pastures. A dollar spent for 2-4-D Amine spray on an acre of pasture might increase the carrying capacity of that acre by 50 percent.

It might add that with the lower price of cattle, a good weed control program will save fertilizer and moisture and help give heavier calves at weaning. This all adds up to more dollars from each cow.

Sam Paschal, O. P. Smith, O. V. Rhoades, and dozens of Coffee County farmers are sold on coastal bermudagrass. Any of these men can give a good testimony.

In a visit to Coffee County last week, O. N. Andrews, Extension Agronomist, had this to say about coastal bermudagrass. "Any time is a good time to plant coastal when there is enough moisture in the ground and when you have a fresh supply of sprigs or green clippings."

Next to an early spring planting, right now, during July rains, is a good time for sprigging or broadcasting green clippings and cutting in with a harrow.

Associate County Agent, J. R. Speed, is working hard to increase livestock production in Coffee County. One big essential according to Speed is having plenty of good quality forage for both grazing and hay.

Mrs. Sara Hutchinson, Home Demonstration Agent, reminded me to mention Bryars, President of the Coffee County Cattlemen's Association; T. C. LEFT OVER HAM?

Do you have left over ham occasionally? Lucky you, if you do because you've got the makings of many a fine meal. You can combine ham with baked beans, scalloped potatoes, noodles or even squash. Try a ham and fruit mixture. The ham sandwich has a reputation of its own. For something special try ham with hard-cooked eggs or cream cheese and ripe olives.

WATERBATH TREATMENT

Many people omit the waterbath treatment for tomatoes, pickles, etc. But this step is important for these reasons: (1) Makes for a fine seal (2) Removes air that may be in the jar (air causes food to change color and some food spoilage bacteria need air to live, and (3) Destroys mold or yeast which could get into the jar (from the air) as the product is being put into the container.

Mayonnaise jars, pickle jars, peanut butter jars, etc., should not be used for what you may break in the waterbath canner.

WATER SAFETY FOR YOU

A tragic accident frequently shows up a show off. The dare-devil automobile or motorboat driver and people doing fancy tricks in water skiing are injured. Many of the 6,500 persons drowned in this country annually have lost their lives because of carelessness, foolishness, or exhibitionism. Some swim and do far, get exhausted, and do not make it back to safety; while others die in unfamiliar water and strike a submerged log, or hit the bottom in shallow water.

News Briefs and Comments

Governor George C. Wallace announced Monday night he will be up the Department of Public Safety immediately by the hiring of 100 additional state troopers. The move was apparently taken to cope with any emergencies that might arise under testing of the new civil rights law, but the Governor did not say that was the reason. Uniforms for the 100 new troopers were ordered Monday afternoon, Wallace said the purchase of new cars will be made as the need arises.

He said there is sufficient money in the Public Safety Department to meet the additional expenditure during this year. The costs of the troopers' uniforms were not included in the state budget, but the legislature meets again in 1965 and Wallace said he will then ask for additional money to meet expenses of the increased department.

The state now has approximately 400 troopers. Recently they were issued carbines equipped with bayonets and all the men have been trained in riot control.

The new troopers will be selected from existing Merit System applications. Twenty Alabama delegates and alternates are leaving this week to attend the Republican National Convention in San Francisco, two of the Alabama delegates, Mrs. Joe Simpson, of Birmingham, and Dick Bennett, of Greenville, are on the platform committee and are expected to try their hand at keeping a strong civil rights plank out of the GOP offering.

Tandy Little, of Montgomery, and Mrs. Russell Leonard, of Anniston, are on the convention's important rules committee which meets Monday.

The Alabama delegation will be settled mostly at the Travelodge Motel and the Richelle Hotel in San Francisco and will caucus Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Republicans have the best chance to elect a president if they will stay clear of a strong civil rights platform and nominate a moderate.

force the city's indecent exposure law. All appetites were whetted by a copious bathing suit display in the store's front window. The fashion show finally started. The first number was a shapely model in a bikini. She was greeted with a great approval by the crowd.

Then out stepped the second model in the topless suit. She was greeted at first with shocked silence, then a few chuckles, and finally a great deal of muttering as the onlookers drifted away. The topless suit model was a 7-year-old girl.

Ben Mathis, Negro convict captured in Ozark late Saturday, has confessed the murders of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edward Morgan, of Enterprise. Dale County Sheriff William M. Walker, said Mathis told of entering the Morgan home in Enterprise and killing the invalid Morgan first and slaying Mrs. Morgan after she screamed.

Mathis was captured by a Negro deputy sheriff in Ralph Cunningham, who was alerted by two younger Negroes, one of them his son. He had been sought since the Morgan murders were discovered at 2:30 a.m. June 23. According to Walker and other investigators, Mathis had eluded hundreds of searches, including a contingent of National Guardsmen, by hiding in woodyards and beneath houses throughout the city, Cunningham, deputized by Walker early during the two-week search, found Mathis sitting on the front porch of a home in the Negro section, Cunningham's son, Ralph Jr., 16, and another Negro, Darrin Crittenden, 23, became suspicious of Mathis when they saw him leaning against a tree in the Ozark Negro area. They said Mathis sat on the porch of a home in the Negro section, Cunningham's son, Ralph Jr., 16, and another Negro, Darrin Crittenden, 23, became suspicious of Mathis when they saw him leaning against a tree in the Ozark Negro area. There were 120 drownings during the weekend of the Fourth of July, a record for a three-day Independence Day holiday. A 78-hour survey of accident fatalities, from 6 p.m. Thursday, to midnight Sunday, showed a toll which soared past the previous record of 442 for a Fourth of similar duration in 1960.

Somehow word got out Friday in Miami, Florida that a model would present the first public viewing of the new topless bathing suit in a local clothing store's fashion show. The result was:

Some 250 people, including a battalion of teenage boys jammed the store, pawing pajamas and expectantly leaning on counters. Newsmen from local papers, radio and television stations stood poised with cameras and note pads.

The three Ozark Negroes who figured in the capture of Mathis will share in the $2,500 reward money, Walker said. Governor George Wallace had offered $1,000 and the City of Enterprise put up another $1,000. Enterprise's mayor offered $500 in a personal account.

Mathis is reported to have said in his confession that he failed in an attempt to enter the Morgan home through a window and went through the back door instead. A window screen had been pulled loose at the top but remained fastened on hooks at the bottom. One of the woodyards in which Mathis is reported to have hidden during the two-week search is within sight of police headquarters, where hundreds of searches were centered at various times. Officers could not specify the houses under which the convict had hidden. Police said the Negro is known as an escape artist who always hides after running a very short distance. In the past, he has always gone directly to his mother's home in Troy as soon as surveillance is lifted, they said.

A memorial Sacred Harp singing will be held at Zion Chapel, Sunday, July 19. Lunch will be served.

MRS. F. M. McDANIEL displays two different color dahlias on the same plant, one a pure white and the other a bright yellow. Mrs. McDaniel said she purchased seed from a school children about mid-April. It is very unusual for one plant to produce blooms of two different colors as the one now flowering in Mrs. McDaniel's flower garden. The white colors appear on the same stem of the plant, but the white blooms actually look more like a white mum than a dahlia. The McDaniels have many other beautiful blooming flowers in their yard.

Lomax Sasser

New Manager Of Country Club

Sonny Inman, president of the Elba Country Club has announced that Mr. Lomax Sasser has assumed the position of manager of the Club, effective July 10th.

Sasser was employed by the Club as greens keeper and has been instrumental in the construction of the gold course. In his present position he will also be in charge of the golf course and the clubhouse. Sasser is well qualified by having worked at the Douthan Country Club and others. He and his family have been residents of Elba for the past four months and has really become a part of the "family."

Sasser has also employed Mr. McCLOUD of Troy, Alabama as chef and to assist him in the operation of the Club. McCLOUD previously worked at the Club when it was first opened. The Club is very fortunate in having Mac as he is rated one of the foremost chefs in the area. He was formerly employed by the Montgomery Country Club and has operated an Officers Club in Japan while a member of the armed forces.

Sasser and McCLOUD informs this newspaper that the Elba Country Club will be operated strictly on club basis and assure everyone that a friendly and cordial atmosphere will prevail at all times and cordially invite all members and their guests to come out and be a part of everything.

Mr. Mace Cook, Golf Green chairman, and Sasser also stated that each green play will be opened for play on August 2. The grass on the fairways has grown to the extent that it is being mowed this week. He also stated that each green is in perfect shape and comments that the greens at the Elba Country Club are the largest found in this area which will make play most enjoyable.

WE GOOFED
Last week in our report of candidates in the city election we made an error and under Buddy Brunson's picture we put "English."

We couldn't have done anything but make a mistake. Immediately we were notified after the paper went into the mail with comments such as "That's not English, that's Buddy Brunson."

At least we know a lot of people know "Buddy Brunson" and it wasn't actually necessary to even put a name under his picture. Those who didn't already know him recognize him now with so much talk going on about the mix-up in names under his picture. We didn't intend to give so much "free" publicity but he sure did get it. And according to the information received by this newspaper everyone knows what he is running for - Councilman for Ward No. Three (3).

Really, we're sorry Mr. Brunson. We're glad to make this correction. Mr. Brunson has been real nice about it. And we do not object since he is a native of Elba. English family apparent. Do not be misled by the fact that he is called "English."

Even the young fry noticed it. One comment especially noticeable was pointing to his picture, "Mamma, they got English under this picture, but that's Buddy!"
